Chapter 4: Memory Management

Virtual memory lets a process use more memory than is physically available.

Paging divides memory into fixed-size blocks called pages and frames.

A page fault occurs when a program accesses a page that is not in main memory.

The Least Recently Used (LRU) algorithm replaces the page that has not been used for the longest time.

The translation lookaside buffer (TLB) caches recent page table entries to speed up address translation.